

Win it before you can buy it!

Answer the following five part trivia quiz and get a chance to win a collector's autographed galley of Jeremy Hanke and Michele Yamazaki's new book, GreenScreen Made Easy, along with the final printing of the book!

The first 200 correct entries will be randomly drawn from and two winners will be determined on March 20th. The winners will be announced in next month's contest section!

Contest Rules:

- 1) You must get all five answers correct to be eligible for the drawing.
- 2) Your completely correct entry must be one of the first two hundred correct submissions to be eligible for the drawing.
- 3) There is no limit on the number of entries a single participant can send in, but the first completely correct one will be accepted and all other entries from the same person will be discarded.

2 Grand Prizes consisting of:

An autographed collector's galley of GreenScreen Made Easy and a final printed version of the book.

Drawing Date:

March 20th, 2009

Special Effects Trivia Quiz

First Name

Last Name

Mailing Address

Email Address

Phone Number

1. Before bluescreen and greenscreen compositing, more expensive and problematic methods were used. One of these processes--the sodium vapor process--was used in the early special effects film, Mary Poppins. What color did the background screen they used in this process appear to be?

Yellow

Pink

Red

Purple

2. What special effects film, based on someone else's comic book, did Frank Miller make his solo directorial debut on?

Jurassic Park

The Crow

Y: The Last Man

The Spirit

3. Because the signature white blood was so hard to achieve on screen, what clever method was used to get blood to look white in the greenscreen extravaganza, Sin City?

WhiteOut

Glue

Fluorescent Red Liquid bathed in Blacklight and Desaturated in Post.

Glow-in-the-Dark White Paint.

4. When Brandon Lee was tragically killed in the special effects film, The Crow, what was done with the footage showing the fatal shooting?

It was sold on eBay in 2002 for $3 million.

Out of respect to the Lee family, it was burned without being developed.

It was put into cold storage by the movie studio.

It was buried with Brandon Lee in his coffin.

5. When he took directorial control over the special effects-heavy Spider Man franchise, what villain did Sam Raimi oppose being in the films, because of his "lack of humanity?"

Carnage

The Green Goblin

Venom

Doctor Octopus

Now, save this .PDF and email it to us at contests@microfilmmaker.com

Legal Notices:

All elements of the submission form must be correctly filled out for an entry to be eligible.

MFM may use the names of any contest winners for future promotions related to the magazine or MFM contests.

Contest rules may be changed at any time by MicroFilmmaker Magazine or its parent company, Viking Productions, Inc.